

MALDIVES MASTER

Far South

Kooddoo to Kooddoo | Huvadhoo, Fuvahmulah and Addu

The far south of the Maldives is big-animal country, with deep channels and strong currents.

Fuvahmulah is known for its tiger sharks, with a bluewater dive above the south plateau to watch the pelagic action.

In Huvadhoo, a drift in the blue is known for scalloped hammerhead sightings, and spinner and grey reef sharks patrol the channels.

Addu, the southernmost atoll of the Maldives, has a manta point and a drift over dense coral gardens.

WORTH KNOWING

Key notes

Insurance

Dive insurance is mandatory, and travel insurance is recommended

Experience

Divers need at least 30 logged dives, open water with deep (30 metres) training, and advanced open water is strongly recommended, and experience of currents and drift dives

Flexible route

Dive sites we visit can change from one trip to the next, depending on the weather, tides, currents and marine life. The route is not fixed

Good to know

All divers must use a dive computer and carry a surface marker buoy and reel on every dive

Domestic flights

Domestic flights are needed to reach or leave Kooddoo, and are not included

Tiger Harbour fee

There is a fee per dive at Tiger Harbour in Fuvahmulah, paid on board in US dollar cash, and it can change without notice

Good to know

The cruise includes long overnight crossings between the atolls
