

JELAJAHI LAUT

Sorong to Lembeh

Sorong to Bitung | Raja Ampat, Misool, the Halmahera Sea and the Lembeh Strait

The first half is spent on the reefs of Raja Ampat, where the Dampier Strait is known for its fish density and strong currents.

Misool is the southern kingdom, known for soft corals and dramatic underwater terrain, with a topside viewpoint over the limestone karst islands and a jellyfish lake.

Then comes the crossing of the Halmahera Sea, a less dived area where reef and muck diving mix around Pulau Pisang, the Goraici Islands and Tifore Island.

It finishes in the volcanic black sand of Lembeh, a muck diving mecca for macro photographers and critter hunters.
