

PRINCESS MAANI

Wild Deep South

Addu to Addu | Addu, Fuvahmulah and Huvadhoo

Fuvahmulah is the ultimate dive destination, where oceanic currents bring tiger sharks and thresher sharks, with frequent sightings of whale sharks and oceanic mantas.

In Huvadhoo, divers dance with hammerheads and eagle rays, drifting in their company along the channels.

Further north in the atoll, schools of grey reef sharks wait over coral gardens, with leopard sharks and guitar rays rarely.

Addu drifts along the oceanic reef, with reef mantas at the cleaning stations between January and April and a wreck on the west side of the atoll that is a must.
