

RAJA AMPAT AGGRESSOR

Raja Ampat, 10 nights

Sorong to Sorong | Dampier Strait, Fam, Mansuar and Misool

Where the Pacific Ocean meets the Halmahera Sea in the Dampier Strait, there is an explosion of marine life.

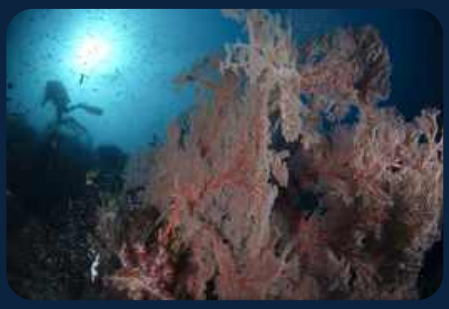

With regular strong currents, big fish feel especially comfortable, with manta rays, reef sharks, schools of mackerel, tuna and barracuda, dolphins and whales, and huge schools of fish near Farondi.

Misool, the best diving area of Raja Ampat, has vertical walls, caves and lagoons covered in hard corals and brightly coloured soft corals, and is renowned as the centre of pygmy seahorses and gorgonians.

Night dives under the jetties bring wobbegongs, walking sharks, nudibranchs, seahorses and frogfish.

Everywhere you go, the profusion of marine life amazes.

THE ROUTE

Route map

The map shows the seven night route in blue and the ten night route in red, round trip from Sorong through the Dampier Strait and Fam to Misool and back. The sample itineraries and maps are for illustration only. The exact route and sites visited depend on local regulations, guest experience, weather and logistics, and are at the Captain's discretion.

THE DIVING

Raja Ampat dive sites

The Raja Ampat itinerary combines the best dive sites of the Dampier Strait, Fam and Mansuar with the dive sites of Misool, the best diving area of Raja Ampat. Highlights include the manta cleaning station near Mansuar and the huge schools of fish near Farondi.

THE DAMPIER STRAIT

The Dampier Strait separates the Birds Head Peninsula from Waigeo and Mansuar. The name comes from the Dutch colonial period and refers to the shape of the peninsula on the map, but it is also a paradise for many rare bird species. Here the Pacific Ocean meets the Halmahera Sea, with an explosion of marine life as the result. With regular strong currents, big fish feel especially comfortable: manta rays, reef sharks, schools of mackerel, tuna and barracuda, dolphins and whales.

Night dives under the Arborek or Cape Mansuar jetty are a favourite, with peculiar creatures such as wobbegongs, epaulette sharks (walking sharks), nudibranchs, pipefish, seahorses, frogfish and scorpionfish.

MISOOL

Misool is the southeast of the four big islands of the Raja Ampat archipelago and at the same time one of the most biodiverse regions in the world. The reefs are rich and varied, with vertical walls, slopes, dry rocks, caves and lagoons, some covered with hard corals and others with brightly coloured soft corals. It is also renowned as the centre of pygmy seahorses and gorgonians, and everywhere you go you will be amazed by the profusion of marine life.
