

If you're an experienced, thrill-seeking diver looking for more challenging yet rewarding dives, venture with us to the deep southern atolls. Where the Maldives meets the equator, this unique parts of the Indian Ocean provides exceptional diving, superb visibility, the most vibrant corals, and some of the best marine life encounters.

There are plenty of dive sites just waiting to be discovered, with corals virtually untouched by humans. This experience will be full of strong currents, deep caves, and unique coral formations. The temperate water and smaller reef fish attract larger pelagics, from reef to whale sharks. Additionally, the Southern atolls' manta cleaning stations are hotspots for close encounters. Perfect for divers that hold advanced certificates and at least 100 logged dives, this is a superb way to take your diving experiences to the next level.

Overview

MALE TO KOODDOO

Starting within the central atolls, you'll start exploring this tropical paradise with more relaxed and colorful pinnacle and wall dives.

On an evening, you'll jump in for some spectacular night dives with our curious nurse shark and stingray nighttime visitors.

You'll spend the day at the Meemu atoll, you'll experience unforgettable encounters at the manta cleaning stations.

Moving further south, there will be an abundance of channel dives, with their strong currents attracting rich pelagic fauna.

As the evenings roll in you'll venture round to the back of the boat for unforgettable night snorkeling experiences with whale sharks. There's a high chance of you having more than one visitor of an evening, and if you stay up late, one-on-one experiences are likely.

The itinerary includes a trip to the Huvadhoo channels, a world-renowned diving location. There's a wealth of exciting encounters waiting to be had here with silvertip, hammerhead, bull, and large schools of grey reef sharks.
