

WHITE MANTA

Raja Ampat, Halmahera and Lembeh

Sorong to Manado | Raja Ampat, Halmahera and Lembeh

From Raja Ampat's coral-rich reefs to the remote, unspoiled waters of Halmahera, this route links two of Indonesia's great diving regions.

In Raja Ampat there are night dives, mangrove dives, and a viewpoint hike above the islands, with 23 endemic fish among the 1,397 species recorded.

Halmahera is remote and almost empty of other divers, with reef sharks, schools of barracuda and jacks, and a manta cleaning station among fish-packed reefs.

An island in the Moluccan Sea draws schools of jacks and snappers and a massive school of barracuda. The last dives are critter dives in the Lembeh Strait.
